ALLEN MAKES COMPLAINT.

HE SAYS THE LADING DEBORAR NUR-SERT IS OVERCROWDED, me Comments by Gerry Society Agents Who Looked Into Mr. Allon's Charges -Comptroller Mysrs to Investigating

Mayor Gilroy received from the Gerry so-ciety yesterday a complaint made to the so-ciety against the Ladies' Deberah Nursery and Child's Protectory, together with the report of the society's agents who had investiby Henry S. Allen of the Charities' Organisation Society. It confines itself to the girls department of the nursery at Eagle avenue and 162d street.

Mr. Allen sars he visited the nursery on March 17. He found there 160 girls, thirtytwo of whom are from 2 to 4 years of age. The place is in charge of Superintendent Preiss and his wife. Mr. Allen says:
"They have little children and babies playing around in the hells. They have but one room for their use in the daytime, which will seat about twenty-five children at the little low tables and little chairs, most of the latter without any backs. This room is in a very unsanitary condition; it is used for their meagre meals and for purposes too disgustmention.

The remaining girls, about 125 in number. who are at school coming in later to dinner, have no room, excepting one, which they call synagogue, and which will accommodate at the most only about seventy-five girls on the benches, which cover the whole floor of the

The dormitories such as they are are clean but overcrowded much beyond the limit fixed by the Board of Health. On the third floor I found the walls liable to fall in at any time, in one room particularly, in which there are twenty beds.

The dining room in the basement is so overgrowded that it is almost impossible for the children to use their hands in eating. There is no moral or religious education, and no teacher ever comes to the building. The thirty odd little babes who might be amused with a kindergarten, or some amusement of some other kind, are without any care in any way, except the attention that the two in any way, except the attention that the two governesses can give them.

"The health of the children, except of a few who had sore heads, I found to be in good con-dition, considering their surroundings. This, I think, is owing to the good care of the super-intendent and matron." intendent and matron."
Assistant Superintendant Stocking of the Gerry society, with Agents Shultes and Pringle, visited this nursery and also the branches at 95 and 103 East Broadway. Their

"At 103 East Broadway the playground for small children is on the roof. These children ranged from 18 months to 3 yearsof ago. Of the 40 children playing there, 23 had sore besses and 21 eyes more or less sore; in fact, all on the roof had either sore heads, eyes, or ness. noses.

"Ritchens in both houses looked clean."
The report went on to say that there were from one to three beds more in each room of the building at East Milst street than the Health Board certificate allowed. It ended

"In most of the dormitories, since the officers' last visit, the walls have been painted and the ceilings whitewashed: and in one of the dormitories at the present time whitewashing is being carried on. In some of the dormitories aupports have been erected to strengthen the upper stairs, and such was also the case in the children's dining room in the basement. Floors were clean dormitory elothing clean also, No fire escapes were noticeable in the building. Only exit, as far as maticod, was stairs on south end of building."

A flow veporter went through this building yesterday with Superintendent Preiss. The only shortcoming that was apparent at first sight was the inadequacy of the building to comfertably hold so many inmates. The children that were romping through the halis were pinup and folly. Superintendent Preiss weigh:

"There have been only six cases of sickness."

There have been only six cases of sickness here during the winter. The building is too small the children are crowded, and the furniture is out of repair, but all that is not my fault. I make out a list of what I want and turn it in to Mr. Lichtenberg, the Secretary. Sometimes I got the things; sometimes I don't.

In the two branches on East Broadway the reporter found all the rooms clean and all the children looking healthy and contented. Mrs. Morris Alexander, who is in charge of these places, said:

LONG ISLAND CITY'S MAPS.

Missing More Then Twenty Years and

Corporation Counsel Stewart of Long Island City is making an investigation into the maps of the city which, it has just been discovered, are missing from the City Clerk's office. When Long Island City was incer-porated in 1871, the State Legislature apomes. When Long Island City was incorporated in 1871, the State Legislature sponted a Survey Commission, consisting of Gen. George R. McClellan, Gen. Wm. B. Franklin, R. M. C. Graham, and Civil Engineer Peter. C. Vanaist, for the purpose of laying out the city. The coat of this commission was $150,000, for which city survey honds were issued. The missing maps were the product of this commission, and cannot be duplicated for less than $10,000. One copy of the maps is on file in the office of the Secretary of State at Albany. Another is on file in the County Clerk's office at Jamaica, and a third copy should be on file in the City Clerk's office at Long Island City. Alderman Kremer intimates that Engineer Vannist has never filed the maps with the city and that the maps are still in his possession. It is also said that the engineer is lought to deliver the maps to the proper authorities lest he should be deposed and a new engineer appointed under the million and a quarter improvement commission just created. Vanaist said yesterday that the city owes him money for work done twenty-two years ago, and that when he is paid he will surrender to the city anything to which it is entitled. The Board of Aldermen have instructed the Corporation Counsel to take the necessary steps to compel the retwrn of the maps.

Jane Cherry Bled of Malpraetice,

It is now certain that the death of Jane Cherry, the young negress, which occurred at Dr. Frank A. Hoyt's rooms at 253 West Fifteenth street, was caused by malpractice. The autopsy made by Denuty Coroner Weston yesterday foreagon established this fact. The police have not yet found floyt, who disappeared on Westonesday, a few hours before the police heard that the girl's body had been ying in a room at 253 for a couple of days. St. Johns, N. F., May 4.-Newfoundland dewas the commander of the steamer Kite, which carried the Peary expeditions of 1801 and 1892 to the Arctic regions. Capt. Pike was born in Carbonear, Newfoundland, in 1834. and when only 18 years of age commanded a vessel at the seal fishery. For seventeen years he continued in command of sailing craft, but in 1869 he took charge of the steamer Retriever, and had been every year since in a steamer. In 1881, in command of a steamer. In 1881, in command of the steamer Proteus, the best of our scaling fleet, he carried Lieut, Greely and his expedition to Lady Franklin Bay. Two years later, he, with the same ship, took north the expedition for Greely's relief commanded by Lieut, Garlington. He was made superior to Capt. Pike, though he had no experience of arctio ice and navigation, and when trying to penetrate the ice pack in Smith Sound he ordered Capt. Pike to go into a lead of water which he thought extended north.

Capt. Pike demurred, but Garlington insisted, and the ship steamed in. Within an hour she was crushed by the ice. The party and crew had to leave her and make south over the ice, carrying their boats and provisions, and were thirty days without shelter. Capt. Pike never fully recovered from the effects of that terrible jeurney, and the thought of having to leave Greely and his comrades to the fearful sufferings they underwent always preyed upon his mind. The cause of his death was cancer of the stomach.

THE FATE OF EMPEROR WILLIAM'S PET MEASURE STILL UNCERTAIN. Caprist Still has Hopes of Carrying It

Through-The Emperor is Prepared to Dissolve the Reichstag if the Bill Patis, BERLIM. May 4.-The discussion of the Army Herr Richter, leader of the Freisinnige party. declared that the party would not accept the compromise agreed upon by Freiherr von Huene, the chief objection being that the concession of the two years' active service limit would be subject to the good will of the Government, which would be enabled, after a period of five years to demand a new increase of the army, and thereby to compel additional concessions on the part of the Reichstag. Herr Richter vigorously assailed Chancellor Caprivi for attempting "to tyrannize over the Reichstag by parading the opinions of mili-tary experts." If, Herr Richter argued, the opinions of military experts were intended to override the views entertained by members of the Reichstag, then Parliamentary represen tation would be a farce.

Herr Richter protested in vehement language against what he characterized as the slighting remarks uttered by the Chancellor regarding the laborious studies which the Committee of the Reichstag on the Army bill had devoted to the question. The theory of the imperial Chancellor, he said, to the effect that the military strength of Germany should be as great tary strength of Germany should be as great as the population of Germany permitted, was untenable. It meant a doubling of the military forces of Germany and it meant the puting of the empire on the high road to being militarized, as Prussia already was. Lloud applauss. "Yet Prussia," continued Herr Richter, "is unable to provide a few hundred thousand for educational and scientific purposes, while the military swallows a militon." Here the speaker was interrupted by loud applause on the part of its supporters. Facing those who dissented from his utterances. Herr lichter exclaimed: "What is the use of patrictism to a man with nothing to eat?"

Upon the conclusion of Herr lichter's attack upon the Army bill, Chancellor von Caprivi, who had listened calmly to the Freining leader's arguments against the measure, delivered a calm and dispassionate reply to his opponent. The Chancellor declared that the increase in the peace effective agreed upon was absolutely essential to safeguard the empire. The Government, he said, would adopt the proposal of Freiherr von Huene and would use it as a plank in their electoral platform should the dissolution of the lichestag become unavoidable. The Chancellor's defence of the Government's position was delivered in an impressive manner, and had a very evident effect upon the Houss.

Herr Bebel, the Social Democratic leader, repeated and emphasized the arguments of Chancellor Caprivi against what he termed a revolution from above.

"It," exclaimed Herr Bebel, "the Govern-" as the population of Germany permitted, was Chancellor Caprivi against what he termed a revolution from above.

"If," exclaimed Herr Bebel, "the Government should attempt such a revolution the people of Germany will quickly reply with a revolution from below."

At the meeting of the Bundesrath or Federal Council to-day Chancellor von Caprivi announced that the Emperor had signed the rescript dissolving the Releastag, and was only awaiting the rejection of the Army bill to promulgate it. awaiting the rejection of the Army bill to promulgate it.

The debate on the Army bill in the Reichstag was adjourned, and numerous party caucuses are now being held. Chancellor Capricy went away from the session in good humor, as seceders from the Deutsche Freisinnige party continue inclined to vote with Freiherr von Huene, and if he can secure twelve votes from the Centre, the Chancellor counts upon a small majority for the bill. Heveral wavering members of the Reichtag will be present at the dinner given by Dr. Bosse to-night, and, it is thought, are likely to be convested to the side of the Government. On the other hand the Alsatian Deputies have arrived in full orce, vowing that they will vote against the bill. The Reichsland of Alsace-Lorraine is represented in the Heichstag by fifteen deputies.

represented in the Helchstag by fifteen deputies.

The deep interest which the Emperor feels in the issue is shown by an incident which has gaused much comment. It appears that the Emperor's visit to Chancellor Caprivi last night was made after midnight. Everybody had retired to bed when the Emperor went to the Chancellor's residence and caused him to be rung up for consultation about the Army bill.

At the meeting of the Bundsrath or Federal Council to-day Chancellor Caprivi announced that the Emperor had signed the rescript dis-solving the Reichstag, and was only awaiting the rejection of the Army bill to promulgate the rescript.

It is said that twelve members of the party are ready to against the attitude of the majority. It is said that twelve members of the party are ready to vote for the compromise.

Herr von Levetzow, President of the Reichstag, has made to Chancellor von Caprivi a statement which shows the announcement of the Vossiche Zeitung concerning the Radical (Freisinnige) caucus last night to be somewhat disingenuous. He said that while the resolution opposing the Huene compromise was passed with apparent unanimity, not a few members abstained from voting. As no amendment was proposed for signature, these dissidents did not put themselves on record as antagonistic to the policy of the majority. These dissidents, however, were still ready to vote with the Government. This is the information which, communicated to the Chancellor shortly before he left the Reichtzag, raised his hopes that the compromise would be saved. Directly after the adjournment the Chancellor conveyed the information to the Emperor.

Chancellor conveyed the information to the Emperor.

The Emperor was persuaded to give up his plan to attend Dr. Besse's dinner to-night. He will remain away also, from the dianer given by the Chancellor. Any apprehension of bringing pressure from the throne to bear upon Deputies was regarded by the Ministers as unwise, because it would give the Social Democrats and the Radicals of the Richter group occasion to proclaim that unconstitutional means had been adopted to strengthen the Government in the Reichstag.

Paris, May 4.-Mr. P. R. Coudert continued his argument in behalf of the United States before the Behring Sea Tribunal of Arbitration. Mr. Condert analyzed the joint report of the Commissioners appointed by Great Britain and the United States to ascertain the facts in relation to seal life in Bebring Sea and the measures necessary for its proper protection and preservation. Mr. Coudert proceeded to prove that there could be no commingling of the seal herds of Alaska with those of Asiatic Russia. Forriers easily distinguished the Alaskan from the Russianskins, and charged higher prices for the Alaskan. Mr. Coudert read affidavits in support of these assertions. He enlarged upon the natural history of the seal, replying with readiness to a series of questions addressed to him by the members of the Tribunal of Arbitration. In response to a question by Baron de Courcel, Mr. Coudert said that Copper Island seals caught by the pelagio sealers came to the market as having been caught at Japan. Mr. Coudert went on to show that the sex of the seals naturally presented likely to those engaged in preparing the skin. He quoted a French authority as saying that the sex could not be distinguished from the skins, but he said he would produce overwhelming proof to the contrary.

REDCOATS AT HULL.

Gladstone Says They Were Not Sent There

LONDON, May 4.- In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. James Keir Hardie. Labor member for the South division of West Ham, asked whether, in response to the resolution adopted by many citizens of Hull, the Government intended to withdraw the troops who are supporting the Shipping Federation against the striking union dockers.

Mr. Asquith, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, replied that if the authorities at Hull were of the opinion that the presence of the troops was necessary for the preservation of order, the order sending the military to that town would not be withdrawn.

J. H. Wilson, the labor leader who has taken a prominent part in the Hull strike, and who represents Middlesborough in Parliament was greatly displeased at the summary man ner in which the Home Secretary had treated Mr. Hardie's question. He at once moved that the House adjourn with a view to determining whether the law had been contravened by the actions of the Shipping Federation and by the Government in supplying troops to interfere in labor disputes.

Mr. Wilson contended that the Government had no right to send troops to Hull unless it was expected that a riot was about to occur. The Shipping Federation, Mr. Wilson declared, was in a conspiracy with the "blacklegs" or non-union laborers against the legitimate trade unions. The Government ought not to encourage such a conspiracy.

Mr. Asquith denied the statement made by Mr. Wilson that troops had been sent to Hull at the demand of the Shisering Federation. The military, he added has been sent to Hull selely because the authorities had declared that there was danger of a riot. Happily there had been no collision between the troops and the people.

Mr. Gladetone, in reply to the motion of Mr. Wilson, said that he sympathiged with the remarks of the member from Middlesborough, to the effect that it was unwise and impolitic to parade troops before atrikers, but the friends of labor ough to take his assurrance that the Government had not designed to support the Shipping Federation.

Mr. Wilson thereupon withdrew his motion.

Fled, Leaving His Companion Dead in Her For several weeks a German, whose name is not known to the landlady, has occupied a furnished room at 95 Clinton place. On Sunday he brought a woman, who, he said, was his me brought a woman, who, he said, was his wife to the room. She said ahe came from Staten Island. On Wednesday afternoon the landlady found her dead in the room. She called in a policeman, and while they were looking at the body the German appeared. At sight of the policeman he fled, and has not been seen since. Deputy Coroner Weston examined the body yesterday. It will be taken to the Morgue, and an autopsy will probably be made.

AND TET THE PAPERS IN THE AS. PINWALL CASE ARE SEALED UP. An Order to Sea Them Refused by Justice

Patterson to a Citizen who Applied For-mally Through Counsel-Other Judges Will Not Interfere Out of Judicial Couriesy. It is not at all probable that the suit of "Cornella G. Aspinwall agt. Lloyd Atpinwall," the papers in which were scaled up by order of Judge Patterson, in Supreme Court, Chambers, on Tuesday, is a divorce proceeding. On May 1 papers were submitted to Judge Patterson on a motion for an injunction, and there is good reason to believe that the papers sealed up by Judge Patterson related to an action brought by Mrs. Aspinwall to restrain her hus band from disposing of certain property in which she has an interest, and in which the Havana Steamship line has an interest. John M. Bowers, counsel for Mrs. Aspinwall, said yesterday that he could not discuss the matter. The reporter said:

"Some of the reporters inferred from the fact that the papers were sealed that it was a suit for divorce?" "Well, that would be a fair argument," said Mr. Bowers, cheerfully. "I don't think papers ever are sealed except in divorce proceed-

When asked if further argument would be made Mr. Bowers said he thought the case was ended, and that it would never be heard was ended, and that it would hever be heard of in court again. Later he said that it was not a suit for divorce. Mrs. Aspinwall said there was absolutely nothing to say about the case. Mr. Aspinwall was not at his office yesterday, and sent a telegram from some place in the city, saying that he was sick and would not be down to business. He was not to be found at half adozen of the clubs he belongs to.

While the scaled-up rapers refer solely to the suit over property an action by Mrs. Aspinwall for a separation is pending, but has not got into court.

The case cause of the effort at secrecy. The injunction order made in the case by Justice Patterson had been scaled up by his oral order, and the fact that the order had been granted was not published in the Latt Journal, where other orders are published. Justice Patterson refused to see any reporters yesterday as reporters.

Accordingly, in the afternoon a reporter presented to Justice Patterson, through counsel, a petition and blank order for the petitioner to see the papers. The pelitioner swore that the papers senied up were not papers in a divorce case, and that the petitioner was employed to report for a newspaper the causes of interest inthe courts. Justice Patterson said he would not grant the order unless counsel in the case of in court again. Later he said that it was case, and that the petitioner was employed to report for a newspaper the causes of intorest in the courts. Justice Patterson said he would not grant the order unless counsel in the case consented.

The same motion was made before Judge McAdam, who said he would grant it in a moment if the case were in his court. He said that a Judge had no right, even in a divorce case, to have the records sealed un. Judge Giogerich in Common Pleas, refused to sign the order on the ground that the case was not in his court. He also said that no court papers should be sealed up.

Under a similar order in the action of Robert L. Sackett, President of the Sackett & Wilhelms Lithographing Company, against his wife, a decree and all the other papers were sealed up recently in the Supreme Court, and there is no way to tell from the records what the decision was.

The Express Was Late, and a Way Train Struck the Track Obstruction. LIMA, O., May 4. - An attempt was made last night to wreck the west-bound express on the Lake Erie and Western road, due at Lima at 9:25 P. M. A heavy shipment of money was on the train, and that was what the wreckers were after. The plot was to be carried out about three-quarters of a mile west of Paxton. one of the most lonely places along the line. At the foot of a grade, near a curve, an obstruction of ties spiked together was placed across the track. The robbers lay in ambush. The express train was behind time, and the right of way was given to a second-class passenger train. This train came against the obstruction, and the engine and two coaches were ditched. No one was injured, but much excitement prevailed. A heavy freight train was following the accommodation closely. The flagman started back and had gone about 100 feet when he was confronted by the highwaymen with revolvers and compelled to return to the wrock. The robbers thought it was his intention to flag the express, which they had planned to rob. The brakeman notified the train crow, who started back in a body and were not melested. After stopping the freight, the alarm was sent over the wire to l'axton and Peoria, and a posse was promptly organized to scour the country in search of the fugitives. They have not been caught. This train came against the obstruction, and
